BRITISH SHIP RUNS GAUNTLET OF SUEZ CANAL

cargo at Indian ports early in September, when I was ordered to steam to Great Britain," continued the captain. "I left Calcutta conveyed by a fast British cruiser and a French torpedo boat. These vessels kept the Kandahar company until we anchored off Colombo, Ceylon."

Captain Keasley said the Emden was exceedingly active in and about the Indian ocean while he was in that part of the Far East. His vessel belongs to the Ellerman Company, which has lost a number of freight carriers since the beginning of the war. The vessel is now under charter to the American-Manchurian line. It was given a shipment of supplies for the Russian government. However, the greater share of the cargo will be delivered at Tientsin and Shanghai. The vessel carries much railway material for roads centering at Peking.

The Kandahar steamed from Panama canal to Honolulu in 16 days. The vessel is said to have had but six inches to spare in clearing the bottom of the canal.

Captain Keasley expressed surprise at being unable to communicate with island stations by radio telegraph. His ship is fitted with a late Marconi apparatus. He says that for two days the operator could not connect with Honolulu, the local station paying no attention to his signals. Employing the emergency signal code failed in its purpose to attract attention of the shore station.

The crew is composed of Malays and Calcutta Indianmen. The vessel will take a small quantity of supplies.

BRITISH ORDER BIG GUNS FROM BETHLEHEM CO.

The Bethlehem Steel Company of Bethlehem, Pa., received an order for 8000 cannon from Lord Kitchener of the British war office. The order was accompanied by a check for $16,150,000, part of which is for work already done by the Bethlehem Steel Company for the British government, and part as an advance payment for material that will go into the new 8000 field pieces.

The cannon ordered are field pieces of a kind that can be turned out in about a month and the Bethlehem company is now well equipped to make them faster than any concern on earth, the boring, forging, machining and tempering being done with great rapidity by means of modern machinery. In the matter of equipment it is declared that Bethlehem is as well equipped as the Krupp, and in many departments surpasses the German plant.

The projectile contracts are well under way and shells are being made so rapidly that Bethlehem is fast catching up with the demand of Lord Kitchener.

Sharpnel now is being turned out at the rate of 12,000 a day, and of the one-pounders and smaller shells the product is 50,000 and upward every 24 hours. Buildings are being erected and machinery installed largely to increase the output of sharpnel.

AFFIDAVITS ON LUSITANIA GUNS GET SCANT CREDIT

The character of the German affidavits that the Lusitania carried guns is revealed in the statement of one Gustav Stahl of New York City:

"On the day prior to the sailing of the Lusitania," deposes Stahl, "I was asked by my friend, A. Leitch, who was employed as first cabin steward, to help him to bring his trunk aboard. In the course of the evening we went on board without being hindered by the quartermaster on guard."

"After having remained some time in the 'gloria' (stewards' quarters) we went to the stern main deck. About 15 to 18 feet from the entrance to the 'gloria,' on the port and starboard respectively, I saw two guns of 12 and 15 centimeter. They were covered with leather, but the barrel was distinctly to be seen. To satisfy my curiosity I unfastened the buckles to ascertain the caliber of the guns. I could also ascertain that the guns were mounted on deck on wooden blocks. The guns were placed about three feet from the respective ship sides and the wall could be removed at that particular place."

"On the fore deck there were also two guns of the same caliber and covered in the same manner. They were placed at about 15 to 20 feet from the entrance of the crew's quarters and four feet from the ship's side, where the wall could also be removed."

Josephine Weir, a New York boarding-house keeper, says in another affidavit that Leitch, who is referred to in Stahl's statement, told her he was going to sea on board the Lusitania as a steward. She says she spoke of the danger from German submarines and that he replied:

"Oh, I'm not afraid; we have four big brightly polished copper guns." Another affidavit is signed by one Greve, who says he heard Leitch make this statement to Mrs. Weir. A fourth affidavit presents the statement of a man named Bruckner, who says he saw cannon aboard the Lusitania while standing on the pier.

The affidavits were turned over to the Department of Justice for investigation in the regular routine channels, but little or no serious consideration was given to them by the State Department.

PLANS FOR SUGAR-BEET WORK.

During the present year the department of agriculture will undertake field studies of sugar-beet production. The object of this work is primarily to determine the conditions, under which sugar-beet production is feasible and where possible to increase the net returns for money and labor invested by beet growers. In order to accomplish this, the relation of the sugar beet to other farm operations will be studied.

In previous general surveys, the areas in which sugar beets may be profitably grown under present agricultural and economic conditions have been located. These include 61 of the 77 areas where sugar beets have been grown previously and one or more new areas. In those areas where sugar beets have been previously grown and are no longer profitable, other lines of agriculture are being worked out. In

A goodly crowd enjoyed the excellent music at Helme's Tavern Tuesday evening, when the Telingau military band rendered a program during the dinner hour. After dinner dancing was indulged in. Patrons expressed their pleasure and some considered the music to be the best ever heard in Honolulu. The enterprise of the management of the tavern in securing the able musicians is evidenced by the fact that they reached Honolulu only Tuesday morning in the Siberia, which arrived from the Orient. They sailed yesterday for the mainland.

so far as the contributing factors for unprofitable sugar beet production, such as diseases, inferior cultural methods, and other factors interfering with sugar-beet production have been determined, special demonstrations will be carried on to show how these difficulties may be overcome.
